OBJETIVOS

Las salidas profesionales que tiene el curso son:

Teaching English as an Additional Language in Early Childhood, Primary and Secondary Education.

Objectives:

1. To guide pre-service and current teachers to reflect and rethink "what" and "how" 21st century students need to learn in the English classrooms in Early Childhood Education, Primary Education and Secondary Education.
2. To develop an understanding of the concepts of literacy and multiliteracies in the 21st century as well as to establish the relationship between English teaching, meaning-making and knowledge production.
3. To integrate literary education and multimodality with the Pedagogy of multiliteracies (New London Group 1996) in English teaching, first, to develop what we could call a literary-multimodality competence and, secondly, to provide students with the conceptual and practical tools that are necessary to face new educational challenges.

METODOLOGÍA

Classes take place only once a week so that the workload is manageable and stress-free. Every session would consist of theoretical and practical lessons that aim to promote active participation through reflection and dialogic encounters. Classes are taught in English by dedicated, enthusiastic and knowledgeable lecturers that cover all levels of education
